Mariners Sunday School Class Update

Combined* Interim Study

“The Christian Faith Confronts Economic Reality”

Due to frequent requests, the national economic debate, and church scheduling realities, we have decided to offer an interim class on the interrelationship of faith and economics. This means that the scheduled class on Paul will be pushed back to the beginning of June. The class on economics will be pitched to an introductory level, unless specific questions point us elsewhere. We will cover creation, fall, redemption as it pertains to economic reality. We will study a business and my participation in welfare reform to see how these Biblical principles, including a view of justice, do in fact pertain to economic reality. And, participants willing, we will look at the national health care debate and see what insight, if any, we Christians can add to the national discussion. I understand that people necessarily will have differing opinions on these matters. But I am more convinced that we as Christians can enjoy, with the help of the Holy Spirit, as much love, tolerance, and respect as we can differing opinions.
